Excitement at the Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Railroud Stockholders on Tuesday

PHILADELPHIA, March, 12 The stockholders of the Pennsylvania The stockholders of the Yennsylvania Raifroad Company held their annual meeting yesterday in Musical Fund Hall, Philadelphia. Over three thousand were represented, either in person or by proxy. Hon. Wm. S. Stokely, Mayor of the city, who owns the largest number of shares of who owns the lags of the read held by any one stockholder, was called upon to preside. Joseph Leslie was appointed Secretary. The annual was appointed Secretary. The annual report of the Board of Directors was read, but not without some opposition, those who were opposed claiming that inamuch as it had already been published, all interested had read it and consequently knew its contents. Others said the report was the most important one that had ever been prepared, and that it ought to be read and explained to the stockholders. It was eventually decided to read the report, and allow interrogatories concerning if from any who thought light was necessary. When the general expenses of the main stem, $346.55.79, were announced, a stockholder asked what the salaries of the President were Col. Scott replied that his own salary was $24.000, subject to a reduction of twenty per cent. The salaries of the Vice Presidents were $12,000 each, but have been reduced to about $10,000 each, Two reductions of ten per cent each have been unde. Other officers have salaries varying from $1,000 to $10,000. The salaries of the three Assistant Vice Presidents were originally $6,000, but have been reduced to $4,800. Regarding the purchase of the Empire Transportation Line, Col. Scott explained that twenty years ago transportation lines were started on the road to compete with New of the Board of Directors was read Line, Col. Scott explained that twenty years ago transportation lines were started on the road to compete with New York roads, and for the reason that fast lines drew more business than the road could have done by itself. The Empire line was purchased at the time it was, owing to difficulties among the oil refineries, which caused several months loss of extensive and valuable traffic. Col. Scott ies, which caused several months loss of extensive and valuable traffic. Col. Scott looked upon the purchase as a wise movement. He said that before the purchase lie was not one of the stockholders in the line. It was bought for two million dollars less than it cost the original owners. Concerning the express business. Mr. Scott stated, in reply to questions, that other roads had made the experiment of conducting their own express business, and lost money. That portion of the report referring to the conduct of Mayor Stokely during the July riots was greeted with applause. The proposition to establish a sinking fund was fiscrely swagned by N. P. Galvin, of New York, Gen. Todd, Mr. Potter, of Philadelphia, and Mr. Carlisle. It was defended by Col. Scott, General Wagner and others. Mr. Galvin said that in a few years by this funding scheme all his stock could be taken from him. He had heard all around him general criticism. lew years by this funding scheme all his stock could be taken from him. He had heard all around him general criticism of the management, and that inside interests had absorbed the money that should have gone to the stockholders. General Todd denounced the plan as a sham and a fraud. If by it one hundred and thirty eight years would be required to pay the indebtedness of the road, the stockholders demanded a change in the management and a reduction in the salaries of officers. There is now a defidit in the Treasury of over $3,000,000. The road has been pushed to the verge of hankruptcy by the policy now in force. This speech drew out the warmest appliance. It also elicited a hot reply from Col. Scott, who said the Pensylvani road was as well managed as any other road in the world. After having given to the road the best years of his life it was very discouraging to be told that his management was a frand. The policy of Mr. Scott was defended by Wm. M. Smith. Mr. Steinmetz deprecated angry words. He moved that the report of the Board be referred to a committee of seven to investigate it and report at a subsequent meeting. Mr. Titus Remak defended the very large of mise in the substance of the same plants. During past nine years the receipts have ex-ight years the loss has been $22,000. An attempt was here made to stop Sutton by values. In eight years the loss has been $22,000. On $20,000. An attempt was here made to stop Mr. Sutton by raising the point of order that his remarks were not relevant, but the cry of "No gag law" was raised, and the speaker was allowed to proceed. He wanted to know if $22,000,000 were lost in prosperous times, what might be expected during times of business depression. be referred to a committee or sected or vestigate it and report at a subsequent meeting. Mr. Titus Remak defended the finding schemes. Mr. Sutton said that the worst that could be alleged about the management was contained in the report showing an indebtedness of $180,000,000, with sons over ten years of age who could not read, 1,633 who could not both read and write. In other words, the proportion of ignorance was ten times greater in the latter than in the former locality. Again, the statistics of churches are significant. In Switzerland county, Indiana, there are twenty-nine churches. In Ohio county there are thirty-six churches. In other words, with a population much more than twice as great, the latter has only seven churches more than the former. To some extent the apparent superiority of the "Hoosier" county is to be explained by the fact that it contains no large towns. This recessitates more buildings for worship, but with a smaller seating capacity. The sittings in Switzerland county are put down at 8,600—which is a little more than two-thirds of the entire population. The sittings in Ohio county are put at 16,750, which is about four-seventhe of the entire population. This latter is a much better showing for the West Virginia locality, but it still leaves it behind the "Hoosier" county. reers with a tremenous normal of tumpets, bissoned for a time in the public

The principal city in the southeastern part of the State, is Madison, in Jefferson county. Once it was one of the finest places in all the region below Cincinnati, It was the leading point of commerce for a very large part of the State. The wholesale business amounted to millions of dollars each year. The first railroad in Indiana was constructed between Madison and Indianapolis. But when the great railway system, which centres at the latter of these places, was developed, it left the former away at one side, and so gave a death-blow to some of the forms of its prosperity. Madisonians are fond of saying that Indianapolis and Chicago, not to mention smaller towns, are colonies which they have sent forth. And there is more truth in the assertion that might seem to be on its face.

STARCH MAKING.

But the city, though stunted in size, was not killed. It, even continues to grow as rapidly as most of the towns on the Ohio river. New forms of industry have arisen to take in some measure the place of those which have passed away, place of those which have passed away. It is now the point where two of the largest starch factories in the United States are located. Each of them with their warehouses and out-buildings constitute quite a village. For instance, the works of R Johnson & Son_oover an aggregate of about three acres of ground. The buildings are all substantial and roofed with slate. The warehouses are capable of storing 150,000 bushels of cozn. A private track brings the cars to the door, where they are unloaded by elevators, and are reloaded with the starch. There is also a private wharf with a large wharfboat attached. The mills grind from 1200 to 1500 bushels of corn a day. The factory turns out both the glossy starch of the laundry and the corn starch of the table. The selling of the offal forces is tief such an immense business, that the firm has recently built, at a that the firm has recently built, at a large expense; a road up the steep bills of the Kentucky side of the river, in order to enable the farmers to come down to a point opposite the works in order to obtain it. The establishment of Clement & Co. is in all respects about the same as that of the Johnsons. Both firms are composed of North of Ireland men, who came to Madison with nothing but their energy and integrity, and who from a very small beginning are now building up colossal fortunes with great rapidity. The products of their factories are shipped not only over the United States but to India and to various other remote parts of the globe. that the firm has recently built, at a

But the place is most attractive for the great number of pleasant looking homes which it contains. Some houses—such as that of Mr. Lanier, the banker of New York—are quite imposing. But very many of them, without being so pretentions are inviting in appearance. The tions, are inviting in appearance. the speaker was allowed to proceed. He wanted to know if $22,000,000 were lost in prosperous times, what might be expected during times of business depression. The case demands prompt and severe treatment, and not a transfer of indebtedness from one shoulder to another. A proposition to reduce expenditures and increase earnings would be more to the point than the one to found. The carrying of express mater by the road, and a change in the manner of distributing free passes, were demanded by the speaker. In conclusion, be advocated the system of no free freights, no favoritism in carrying freights, a lessening of the cost of maintaining the road bed, which is much greater than that of any other road, and economy and retrenchment in employes and officials. He had that instead of asking the stockholders to take four per cent scrip the management should reduce expenses, increase earnings and pay dividends.

The uphot of the discussion was the appointment of a committee, as moved for, to act with the Board of Directors and report on Monday, the 25th inst, before the election of a new Board. A resolution by Mr. Sutton against free passes, free freight, discrimination, and from various other roads and report on Monday, the 25th inst, before the election of a new Board. A resolution by Mr. Sutton against free passes, free freight, discrimination, and the number and salaries of officers, was also referred to this committee. The meeting then adjourned.

SWITZERLAND COUNTY.

The scene of "Hony" seems to be Switzerland county, one of the first on the Ohio river below Cincinnati. It has a veritable Posey township. Versy, the Switzerland county of to-day is something very different from the portrait painted in the story.

In point of intelligence it has not much, of which it need be sahamed. According to the last census the entire population was 12,018. Out of these there were only 55 persons, over ten years of age, who could not read, and only 59 who could not read and write. Comparisons are said to be invidious, Nevertheless, one may be suffered here. According to the last census, the county of Ohio in West Virginia shad appoulation of 28, S31.
